

Safe and Caring Schools & Communities (SACSC) has been selected as one of nine charities to compete in the ATB Financial Charity Shootout.

CTV's Graham Neil has chosen us as his charity and he will be shooting on Josh Classen to help us win a portion of the $20,000 going towards selected charities. We were hand-picked by CTV staff to be one of the nine charities so we need to bring our large group of supporters with us!

This is how it works. On Sunday, January 15, 2012, the shootout participants, the organizations and their cheering sections and anyone else you want to invite, and a lot of the CTV staff meet on the Rink of Dreams. It is located behind CTV studios at 18520 Stony Plain Rd.

At 12 noon, the first round of the tournament begins. There are four head-to-head matches from which four winners emerge. The results will be kept secret and the highlights will air on CTV News at 6 on Monday, January 16 and Tuesday, January 17.

The first two first round winners then meet in the first semi-final live on CTV News at 6 on Wednesday, January 18. January 19 is the second semi.

The final goes on Friday, January 20, but not before we have a ceremonial puck drop and the national anthem!

SACSC needs your support! Come out and cheer with us on Sunday January 15, 2012 at noon! We will be bringing signs, our banner and of course – Niska! This is a great opportunity for us to get some exposure about our organization so come out and help us be the loudest cheering charity at the ATB Financial Charity Shootout!
